The Aboriginal Makers Market celebrates Aboriginal creativity and culture at the Bundanoon Folk Festival. We welcome artists, makers, and craftspeople to share and sell their handmade work and connect with community. We want to showcase local talent and provide a professional opportunity for local mob makers.

Stalls are open to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander creatives living in or connected to the Wingecarribee region. We encourage traditional and contemporary art forms — weaving, painting, jewellery, textiles, sculpture, crafts, bush products, and more.
